Did SOLAS want a body?

Cole says that Solas did not want a body. What are the benefits and disadvantages of having a body? Also Fen'Harel's name is "Solas" which means "pride" and pride demon is a form that a spirit of wisdom takes when is twisted against its purpose.

Does SOLAS wear a wolf's jawbone as a necklace?

Let's take a look... Of course, one of the biggest clues hidden in plain sight is one that most fans know fairly early on--that Solas, the Dread Wolf himself--wears a wolf's jawbone as a necklace. One of the things I like about this detail is that it is as paradoxical and complex as Solas himself, if you think about it.

What does Solas do?

Solas is about to complete his long-planned ritual to destroy the Veil and merge the mortal and spirit worlds at a temple in Arlathan Forest. His plans are interrupted by Varric, who attempts to persuade him once more to stop.

Does SOLAS have Spirits & demons?

So, not only does Solas have highly strategic agents working in the field for him, but he's acquired spirits and demons in the Fade, unbound, unlike anything we've ever seen before. "The spirits there serve him gladly. They whisper in my dreams now, accusing me of crimes I never committed and promising vengeance if my wards fail.

Why does SOLAS have a Dread Wolf?

On top of Solas's agents, he has acquired a spirit/demon army under the guises of the Dread Wolf. They serve him, not bound to his will, but because they want to. In fact, Solas has decreed that if anyone binds a spirit to their own will, or uses blood magic, then your life is his. We'll touch on this hugely in the next topic.

What is the difference between SOLAS and Cole?

Solas: You are a spirit who crossed the Veil and took human form. Cole: Spirit or demon. Solas: The two are not so dissimilar, Cole. Solas: While the world may exert a pull in one direction or another, the choice is ultimately yours.
