

How good are the new LED keychain flashlights?

The new Finware 5 Pack Mini LED Keychain Flashlights are in fine shape with bright LED's and a firm switch action. However, only three out of five worked effectively. The three functioning flashlights were dim and grew visibly less bright second by second when on.

What is a keychain flashlight?

A keychain flashlight is one of those portable gadgets that you cannot live without. It provides a quick and powerful source of illumination on demand, whether you're struggling to open your front door in the dark, changing a flat tire, or hiking along the trail.

What is the power output of a keychain flashlight?

The power output of a keychain flashlight is important. A good general output is between 100 to 300 lumens, though you can find ultra-bright keychain flashlights with double that output. Most guys don't need an incredibly bright flashlight, but it should be bright enough to work for your needs.
