

Is solid power a good stock to buy today?

Solid Power is still in the developmental phase and has not commercialized its product yet. Consequently, the stock's sell-off today is not based on anything material to the company. For those interested in powering their portfolios with Solid Power, today's sell-off provides a great opportunity.

How many lead investors does Solid Power have?

Solid Power has four lead investors. Seven other investors have also joined in the effort, making a total of eleven investors.

Who owns solid power?

Campbellco-founded Solid Power in 2011 as a spinoff from a research venture of the University of Colorado-Boulder. The company joined the Nasdaq in December 2021 after a merger with Decarbonization Plus Acquisition Corporation III, a special purpose acquisition company. Solid Power raised $542.9 million from the transaction.

Is solid power (SLDP) a good stock to buy?

Solid Power (SLDP -2.21%) was hardly looking like a powerful stock on Monday. The solid-state battery developer's price fell by nearly 10% on news of a departure from the company's C-suite. That decline stood in marked contrast to the performance of the S&P 500 index, which crept 0.1% higher on the day.

Will solid power stock end 2024 on a sour note?

Poised to end 2024 on a sour note, shares of Solid Power (SLDP 1.80%) are skidding today as investors seem energized about moving the solid-state battery stock out of their portfolios. The irony though is that the company hasn't reported any negative news which would be a catalyst for the sell-off.

Why did solid power stock sell off Tuesday?

In the regulatory filing, Solid Power did not provide the reason (or reasons) for Johnson's move. It also did not address the matter of a successor, which is likely one reason for the Tuesday stock sell-off. Investors might have overreacted a bit, as any company is more than just one manager or management team.
